BUILDING AN OLD BUILDING INTO THE MODERN DAY means preserving its essence while embracing the latest in architectural innovation. In the case of the historic Villa Mairea in Finland, the design duo of Alvaro Siza and Herta and Paul Amirian took on the task of transforming a 19th-century building into a modern-day residence. The result is a masterpiece of architectural innovation, blending the old with the new in a way that is both respectful and revolutionary. The house is a testament to the power of design to breathe new life into old structures, creating a space that is both timeless and contemporary. The design team worked closely with the owners to ensure that the house remained a true reflection of its heritage, while also incorporating modern amenities and materials. The result is a house that is both a work of art and a functional living space, one that has inspired countless others around the world.
